THE CHRISTIAN'S VIEW OF REC-REATION

LESSON TEXT—Jer. 31:12, 13, Zech. 8:5, Matt. 7:1-5, Mark 2:15-17, John 2:1-11.

GOLDEN TEXT—I am come that they might have life and that they might have it more abundantly.

PRIMARY TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

JUNIOR TOPIC—The Right Way to Play.

INTERMEDIATE AND SENIOR TOPIC—What Play Does for Us.

YOUNG PEOPLE AND ADULT TOPIC—Recreation in Community Life.

In the last lesson we saw that work was God's primal law for man. In the story there is a certain breakdown of cells which needs constant repair; therefore, in order that man may continue there must be recreation. Recreation means re-creation. Failure to discern this truth has made of recreation dissipation. In this light let us view the salient points in the scripture selected.

I. The Coming Golden Age (Jer. 3:12, 13).

Though Jeremiah was the weeping prophet, and presented dark pictures of Israel's condition, God gave him a view of Israel's golden age. He made known how that through the mighty hand of God the chosen nation should be delivered from bondage and brought into their own land where peace, prosperity and gladness should prevail. The source of all real recreation is right relationship with God. God is the source of all joy. Nothing so powerfully affects the physical organism in its renewal as joy in God. In this coming age the streets of the city will be safe for old people and children (Zech. 8:4, 5).

II. The Christian's Relation to Fasting (Mark 2:18-23).

1. A question asked (v. 18).

The very joyfulness of the disciples of Christ in contrast with the disciples of John and the Pharisees, moved an inquiry as to the reason. The law of Moses only required fasting on the Day of Atonement. John the Baptist was in prison, therefore it is clear as to why his disciples were fasting.

2. Christ's answer (vv. 19, 20).

He declared that the children of the bride chamber could not fast as long as they had the bridegroom with them. The joy of present companionship with Christ prevented their fasting. This shows that Christ is the real source of joy. He recognized that when the bridegroom was absent, there was occasion for fasting. Christ is now away, therefore fasting is permissible. In times of great need the early church fasted. Before sending out the first missionaries they fasted and prayed (Acts 13:1, 2). More fasting and less feasting would be helpful today in the ordination of Christian workers.

III. The Christian's Relation to the Sabbath (Mark 2:24-28).

The disciples were charged with lawlessness because they plucked ears of corn as they walked through the fields on the Sabbath day. In Christ's defense against this charge, He

1. Cites a precedent (v. 26).

It was the case of David, their great king, who in time of need ate the shewbread which was only lawful for the priests. The principle set forth is that the higher law of human need warranted David in doing this which was out of the regular line of duty.

2. Showed the nature of the Sabbath law (v. 27).

The Sabbath was made for man, therefore its right use is determined by what it contributes to man's good. The Sabbath should not be man's cruel master, but his helpful servant.

3. Jesus is Lord of the Sabbath (v. 28).

It was He who instituted it when creation was finished; therefore He had the right to use it as it pleased Him for man's good.

IV. The Need of a Vacation (Mark 6:30-32).

The tragic death of John the Baptist had just occurred, and the disciples had just returned from a strenuous missionary tour. Christ, perceiving their need, invited them to come apart with Him for rest.

V. Jesus Attending a Wedding (John 2:1-11).

This is a striking sidelight on the spirit of Christ. A marriage feast was graced by His presence. In this act He set a mark of honor upon marriage, which is the most joyous of earth's occasions. In this act man's holy Redeemer lifted the holy ordinance of marriage into its dignity and beauty. In the course of the feast, when the wine was exhausted, He wrought His first miracle rather than have its festivities marred.

Glorious

Earth has not a spectacle more glorious or more fair to show than this—love tolerating intolerance, charity covering as with a veil even the sin of the lack of charity.—F. W. Robertson.

Overcoming Obstacles

An easy life is not likely to be a very valuable life to itself or to others. Strength comes by overcoming obstacles, and it is the strong life that can best help those about it.

For Baby

New York.—There are, even in this day of fabulous royalties and sales of motion picture rights, writers who are not wealthy. Of several such that I know, one recently became a father and all his friends showered the young son with gifts—appropriate clothing, silver spoons, mugs and what-not.

"But the best present of all," the writer told me, "is one good old George X sent. George gave my young hopeful two $20 gold pieces, and my wife and I have been instructed not to start the child's bank account with them. Instead, we must, each morning, hold the coins close to the baby's eyes and clink them together.

"As he grows up he will realize what real money is, and he will be trained to grab for it whenever he sees it."

Detective Story

A colored man walked into a pawn shop with a $250 camera. The pawn broker was suspicious and questioned the man regarding where he got such an expensive instrument. The colored gentleman thereupon departed hastily, not even troubling to take the camera, and not getting a ticket for it, either. The pawnbroker turned the camera over to police, who found a roll of film in it. This they had developed and prints made from it. The pictures were scenes aboard a yacht and at obviously expensive beaches. "Aha!" said the detectives, "A rich man owns this camera." One snapshot showed a close-up of a man in yachting costume, and a detective recognized the subject. It was Edmund O'Brien, an actor and the son of a former Supreme court justice. Pursuing the picture clew still further, the detective learned that the camera had been stolen from O'Brien, and hadn't even bothered to notify the police.

Sensitive Fellow

Here is a story they are telling about Jimmie Durante, comedian. Durante, who used to play the piano for a singing waiter named Eddie Cantor, is known far and wide as Schnozzle, because of his de Bergerac nose. He is, perhaps, sensitive. At any rate, rather than have people laugh at him, he expends tons of energy in making them laugh with him.

He was playing golf one day, out on Long Island. Part of the course lay alongside a railroad track, and it was fast. A crowded passenger train had pulled in, just as Durante was getting ready for a tee shot.

Decidedly nervous, Durante was the last of a foursome to drive. It was a terrific swing, and missed the ball entirely. Without a word he started down the fairway.

His companions called to him:

"Hey, you missed the ball!"

Durante scurried for them to pipe down:

"I know it," he said, guardedly, "but look at all of those people in the train watching me. They don't know it."

Acid Air

Chemical properties in New York atmosphere are hard on woodwork. It has been found after an examination of the steeple of St. Paul's church on lower Broadway. The church is 135 years old, and in excellent condition, but the wooden steeple has been eaten away. Scientists insist that it is chemicals that have done it, for the steeple has received as much care as any old Colonial mansion, many of which look as good as new. The old steeple is being demolished and will be replaced by one made of metal, colored to resemble the original. Even that may not last, for not long ago it was discovered that the metal figure of Justice, atop the Municipal building, was all but losing her flowing robes, due to a peculiar rivet disease in her costume.

Tooth Aches, So This Hero Removes It With Revolver

Santander, Spain.—The most original method yet discovered for removing an aching tooth was employed recently by a laborer in the town of Astillero, who shot out the offending molar. Unable to stand the pain any longer, he placed the barrel of a revolver against the tooth and pulled the trigger. He said he was relieved immediately. The only trouble was that the bullet also penetrated his cheek.

Women Give Cup to Town's Model Husband

Cushing, Okla.—A man who never drinks "more than enough," swears only moderately, drives a new car, uses tobacco in every form, plays a moderate game of golf and fills in at bridge only when forced to has been selected the "model" husband by the Cushing Women's Professional and Business club. Dwight Buell, the model, was presented a silver loving cup by the club.

Doctor Roll Grows

Washington.—The average American has at his beck and call more doctors than has the citizen of any other nation, the United States bureau of education has discovered by a survey. And the number of physicians is increasing every year.

America's ills now support 149,521 physicians, it was found.

Sword of Franklin Is Discovered in Paris

Paris.—The long-drawn-out polemics and discussions as to whether Benjamin Franklin ever wore a sword at the courts of France and England have been solved by the discovery of the weapon in the private collection of M. Honore Hecquet d'Orval, a descendant of P. J. Cabanis.

It was presented to M. Cabanis by Franklin shortly after the conclusion of the treaty of peace by which Great Britain recognized the independence of the United States of America.

A unique feature of the sword is that it is not similar to those usually regarded as a "courtier's sword." being of full military length with a triangular blade of the finest Sheffield mottoes and the elaborately chiselled hilt and guard—the gift of Louis XVI—it might have been the sword of an officer.

The blade bears the inscription:

"Sword which was carried by Benjamin Franklin in the battles fought in America for the cause of Liberty. He gave it later to his friend, P. J. G. Cabanis."

The discovery is due to M. Giocole, curator of the museum established in the historic chateau of Riscarcourt by the citizens of the new French republic. The sword, after which the hilt is final farewell to the soil of France.

Rust-Proof Steel Easy to Weld, Says Expert

Washington.—Rustproof steel is easily welded by the acetylene-oxygen process and is even more rustproof after welding than before, due to less grain growth, silicon and manganese during melting. These findings by W. Hoffmann, German metallurgist, have just been announced by the national advisory committee for aeronautics here.

The physical characteristics of rust proof-steel welds are better than those of soft-steel welds, but the hardness of the metal due to welding must be removed by heat treatment.

Philanthropist Buys Camp for Students Who Work

Springfield, Mo.—L. A. Jones of Braxton, Okla., millionaire oil man and philanthropist, has purchased a 1,000-acre tract of land to be devoted to boys who work their way through school. The tract, purchased in the Ozarks, will have a large administration building, dining hall, dormitory, and several cabins erected on it. A large lake and swimming pool are also to be built.

French Court to Reform Bandits With Marriage

Bourg, France.—Will marriage reform a bandit? Three bandits think it will and the justice of peace of this town has decided to give them their choice of hymen over a prison cell. The ceremony was performed in the town jail. The bandit trio married three sisters whom they have courted off and on between raids around the countryside.

Grand Total of all Disbursements and Balances	$	74.488.08

The above is a detailed statement of Receipts and Disbursements of the Appomattox County School Board for the past session and should be of interest to all citizens.

While the statement shows a balance at the end of the year of $3,588.93 it should be explained, that, although this was the actual balance on the day the books were closed, June 30, 1929, yet there were several large obligations that the Board had incurred against this balance. After deducting these debts there was a small working balance left which enabled the Board to tide over the summer until the first State Appropriation was received on October 2nd. A detailed statement of these items will appear in next years account.

PERSONAL MENTION

Mr. Arthur Irby has been on a visit to his home folk here.

Mrs. H. E. Scott, of New York, is visiting in town.

Mrs. S. L. Ferguson continues ill at her home here.

Mrs. Helen Welch spent the week-end in Bedford.

Mr. T. J. Harvey, of Petersburg, spent Sunday with home folk here.

Mrs. D. N. Twyman has returned from a visit to her sister and niece at Williamsburg.

The County Fair is being well attended and the exhibits are very creditable.

Miss Bessie Zimmerman has returned from a visit to Richmond.

Mrs. Frederick David, who has been quite sick, is improving.

A telegram received here a few days ago announced the death in Groton, Conn., of Mr. Harry Dickinson Lewis, an uncle of Miss Frankie McKinney of this place. Miss Frankie leaves under the will of the deceased $10,000, which has been probated in New York.

Rev. Clark of the Appomattox circuit and C. W. Smith left for Conference in Richmond Tuesday. It is reported that both charges will have a good report to make.

Base ball season ended sadly in Philadelphia Monday when the Athletics took the world series in five games played. Now we have football and basket ball.

Mrs. H. C. Almond has returned from Blueridge Sanatorium, where she has been taking treatment.

Mr. and Mrs. D. H. Hancock of Bluefield, W. Va., Mrs. T. A. Hancock, of Lynchburg, Miss Corinne Hancock, of William and Mary, and Miss Annie Hancock, of Crozet, were week end visitors in the home of W. M. Hancock.

Mrs. Chester H. Manley, of Richmond, visited her sister, Mrs. Walker O'Brien, last week.

Mrs. C. W. Potts, of Lynchburg, is spending several days this week at Allendale and attending the Appomattox Fair.

Mr. and Mrs. Julian H. Hill and children, Jane and Hutson, spent Saturday night and Sunday in the home of Mr. W. W. O'Brien.

Miss Grace Burnett served a delightful dinner party last Saturday evening in honor of Miss Hallie Burnett and young friends of Lynchburg. Miss Phoebe O'Brien was also a guest.

Miss Elizabeth Abbitt and parents and Mrs. Evrod Connor of Appomattox spent Sunday in Vera at the home of Mr. Geo. F. Abbitt.

The three banking institutions of the county have reports published in this issue. It is gratifying to observe that all the reports are favorable and that Appomattox enjoys such ably managed financial institutions.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellis Wilson and Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Burchinal and their two boys, Reginald and Charles, all of West Va., were visitors in the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Lewis recently.

Douglas Almond and Mr. Buchanan had an accident on the highway a few days ago and Mr. Almond was in hospital for a while but escaped. His whereabouts are unknown and his friends would be glad to hear from him.

CONCORD

Mrs. O. R. Turnes gave her Sunday School class a weenie roast at Bethel Church last Sat. night, those present were Mrs. Turnes, Mr. and Mrs. Aubrey Davidson, Anderson Johnson, Jack Kink, Misses Virginia Chick, Ruth King, Thelma King Odelle Ferguson, Nellie Turnes and Louise Turnes. Everyone reported a fine time and hope to have another one soon.

Mr. and Mrs. V. B. Carson had as their dinner guests last Sunday, Mr. and Mrs. Tom King, Mr. and Mrs. E. L. Chick and two daughters, Virginia and Rachel, Miss Christine Wheeler, Mr. Tipton Lee and Mr. Bartran Lee.

Mr. and Mrs. O. R. Turnes went to see Mr. John Laughorn in the hospital Sunday.

PAMPLIN

Rev. J. E. White preached his last sermon before conference last Sunday a. m., which was greatly enjoyed. Rev. and Mrs. White have greatly endeared themselves to our people and we wish their return to the Pamplin field.

The Ladies Aid Society and Missionary Union of M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Rosa Cumby Wednesday afternoon. After an interesting program and business dispenced with, delightful refreshments were served by hostess.

Mrs. O. E. Peterson and Miss Lucy Rice attended the State Convention of W. C. T. U. at Charlottesville last week.

Mr. Hamner Moses has accepted a position at Winchester and we wish him much success.

Miss Lucile Moses, who has been on the sick list is improving.

Mr. Clem Henry Crute, of Nashville, Tenn., came home on Wednesday afternoon. He has recently undergone on operation for appendicitis.

Miss Mary West Terry, of S. T. C., spent the week-end with her parents.

Miss Christine Garrett, a member of the high school faculty, spent last week-end with her home people.

STONEWALL

Farmers are busy sowing wheat.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert D. Stratton and children are moving to Concord this week and will occupy the J. P. Scruggs residence.

Mr. and Mrs. Clayton T. Drinkard and F. E. Jennings, Jr., and Mrs. W. H. Drinkard visited Rev. A. I. Caudle and family in Dillwyn Sunday.

Mrs. Jennie Bondurant, Miss Eleanor and Malcolm, of Lynchburg; Mr. and Mrs. F. E. Jennings and children were Sunday guests of W. H. Drinkard.

Friends of John Laughorn will be glad to hear he is doing nicely at Lynchburg hospital, after being in a wreck Wednesday night and having his collar bone and hip broken and other minor injuries.

The Fair

Great crowds are visiting the Fair and the attractions are unusually interesting. Fine horses, good racing and the mid-way is full of shows and booths. Come out Friday and Saturday. Open night and day. Let the children see the fire works.

Mrs. Walter McGill

As a child Sallie Mosley Burke was as bright as a sunbeam and graceful as a fairy; as a girl she radiated cheer and happiness, was pretty with the accomplishments of a fearless rider, lovely voice and manner, scintillating conversationalist with purity of thought and expression, never making adverse criticisms and was a pal and friend to both sexes alike. Her joyousness dispelled pain and depression in a sick room, and endeared her to old and young.

She was a devoted wife with reserved affection but love-light shone in her eyes when relating characteristics and plans of her husband. She was a true helpmate.

She idolized her daughters, entered into their pleasures and was a real companion to the one who survived.

She identified herself with church and community work, was an artiste in making dainty fads and fashions and was the attractive centre of social functions.

Her parents, who have crossed the river, rejoiced in her love and good deeds. Her brothers and sisters relied on her counsel, and when the final summons came, she told her loved ones she did not want to leave them, but she was not afraid to go. There are many stars in her crown, and her soul is at rest.

"DEAD" MAN ASKS FUNERAL COSTS

Lawyer-Magician Has Stiff Problem to Solve.

Detroit, Mich.—Walter H. Domalski, a Detroit attorney and a magician of no little ability, has a problem that will require all of his cunning as a lawyer and his skill as a sleight of hand artist to solve.

As a member of a magicians' union who can pull white rabbits out of a hat and create oranges where eggs were before, Mr. Domalski has established quite a reputation for himself. Now, according to his own admission, he has a feat of legal legerdemain to perform.

He must prove that his client, Joe Slominski of Josephat's alley, who is legally dead and buried, is very much alive and entitled to the residue of his own estate of approximately $600. Most of the $600 has been used up long ago to pay the funeral expenses and administrate the estate of the other man buried as Joe Slominski, according to Mr. Domalski.

Here's the story: Back in 1927 Slominski, who had no friends in Josephat's alley, which is somewhere near Canfield avenue and Hastings street, did some drinking and eventually found himself undergoing treatment in the county hospital at Eloise.

September 29, 1927, Joe was reported missing. A few days later the police notified friends that a man answering Joe's description had been killed by a street car. The friends identified the dead man as Joe Slominski.

A Chene street undertaker took the body to Joe's former home on the alley for the funeral services. There Joe's more intimate friends said: "Why, that's not Slominski. This man is too big to be Joe."

But friends who accompanied the undertaker said: "Sure that's Joe."

The funeral services were held for Joe Slominski.

The funeral cost $125. In the nearly two years that followed much of the rest of the $600 was distributed according to a will that Slominski had made.

Mr. Domalski brings the story up to date.

Recently Joe Slominski wandered from Eloise and went fishing. He caught six fine carp and sold them to a passing motorist for 25 cents, the first money he had obtained since 1927.

The 25 cents inspired Joe to take a street car and come to Detroit, where he went immediately to Josephat's alley to surprise his friends. The surprise worked—both ways.

Engineer Invents Color Pictures for the Radio

Berlin.—Herr Ahronheim, a Berlin engineer, has discovered a new process by which colored films and pictures may be sent over the radio. The process, which is the simplest matter in the world, according to the inventor, consists in the application of a correction element, which has not been used for telegraphy before, and it will hardly make more expensive the existing apparatus now in use.

The inventor refuses, however, to give the secret away yet. With the new process one will be able, firstly, to transfer objects in one color, and reproduce them on the receiver in ground glass, which means imitation of single colors; secondly, the fixation of this color on paper, and thirdly the transferring of pictures in natural colors.

While the first and second part of the process play a great role for industry, trade and criminal service, the third part is meant more for universal use.

Herr Ahronheim is now occupied in perfecting the invention, and hopes to construct a real color televisor within a short time.

Makes 600-Yarder in 3, Blows Up, Loses Match

Gilroy, Calif.—Gather all ye golfers, and list to the tale of the double eagle—a 600-yard hole made in 3!

Hugh Hersman, who in addition to being prominent in the ranks of the California prune and apricot growers, has time to be a prominent Elk and then a golfer, too, is credited with the performance.

But the double eagle so upset Hersman, his friends say, that he finished the nine holes in 46, while his companion, Rowley Thomas, won with 38.

Angler Hooks a Deer While Casting for Fish

Redding, Calif. — While fishing, Charles Grant hooked a deer instead of a trout. On overcast into a pool he found a yearling buck on the line, hooked in the ear. The little buck was in the brush behind him. The frightened animal was released by Grant and his companion angler, and went scampering away.

Farms Land 50 Years; Can't Prove It's His

Maryville, Mo. — James M. Stephenson for 50 years farmed a 40-acre tract near here. But he cannot show that he owns the farm. The original certificate was lost and Stephenson is now seeking to have the title cleared that he may show on "paper" that the tract is his.

Noisy Visitors Cause Town to Get Marshal

Waco, Neb.—The peaceful little village of Waco, annoyed by the rowdyism of visitors from nearby towns, has established a law enforcement department. For many years the village was without a marshal and police magistrate but these have been made necessary, it was decided, by the numerous law violations of visitors.

Citizens of the village were of a law-abiding class and needed no officers. Tourists also caused no trouble, but the fact that the town had no law enforcers attracted visitors from the towns nearby who came here to "make whoopee," much to the annoyance of the residents. It was for the curbing of this element that the new department was installed.

1 That the name and address of the publisher, editor, and business manager is A. H. Clement, of Appomattox, Va.

2 That the owner is A. H. Clement, of Appomattox, Va.

3 That the known bondholders, mortgages, and other securities are none.

4 That the two paragraphs next above giving the name of the owners, stockholders, and security holders, if any, contain not only the list of stockholders and security holders as they appear upon the books of the company but also, in case where the stockholder or security holder appears upon the books of the company as trustee or in any other fiduciary relation, the name of the person or corporation for whom such trustee is acting, is given, also that the said two paragraphs contain statements embracing affiants full knowledge and belief as to the circumstances and conditions under which stockholders and security holders who do not appear upon the books of the company as trustees, hold stock and securities in a capacity other than that of a bona fide owner; and this affiant has no reason to believe that other person, association or corporation has any interest direct or indirect in the said stock, bonds, or other securities than associated by him.

A. H. Clement, Owner.

Sworn to and subscribed before me this 16th day of Oct., 1929.
